

Irma C. Duke

Director of Church Relations, Retired
Campbell University Divinity School

Irma Duke is a native of Martinsville, VA. She is a graduate of Florida Southern College and Campbell University Divinity School. She has two children and four grandchildren. She lives in Angier and is a member of Neill's Creek Baptist Church where she loves to serve as a deacon and Sunday School teacher. Her husband Jim passed away in 2019. She retired from Campbell University Divinity School in 2014 where she was Director of Church Relations for 14 years. Prior to her ministry there, she was Associate Vice President for Communications for the International Mission Board in Richmond, VA, where she served 18 years, and Director of North Carolina Woman's Missionary Union, Raleigh, where she served six years. Currently she serves on the Board of Directors for the Baptist Foundation and serves as president of Angier Senior Citizens.

Her message today is...
